Wyoming.com Cuts Ribbon to Launch Wireless NextGen; Lauds Partnership with Fremont County Fire Protection District

Riverton, WY (September 12, 2014) – The Wyoming-based Internet Service Provider held a ribbon cutting ceremony this morning at Battalion 8-1 of the Fremont County Fire Protection District (FCFPD) to celebrate the opening of one of its new Wireless NextGen towers. This new tower, one of seven new towers at FCFPD battalions, will also provide Internet access to the battalion. This ceremony celebrated the launching of new Internet and phone services for rural Fremont County, the FCFPD, and the partnership between Wyoming.com and Fremont County Fire reached in February. Battalion 8-1 is located at 1554 Missouri Valley Road, Shoshoni.

“We are very grateful to our Wyoming.com staff, the great job Cerento is doing for us, and especially the cooperation we have received from Fremont County Fire”, stated Chris Robisch, Wyoming.com’s Director of Sales, Marketing & Public Policy. “Partnering with the Fremont County Fire has been a win-win for our customers and the District; the opportunities for all are exciting”.

“The Fremont County Fire District is pleased with this partnership to not only help the community, but it benefits the fire service too”, stated Craig Haslam, District Chief of Fremont County Fire District, “our firefighters can now access online training and utilize the Wyoming.com Internet for many important fire business functions. It’s great to help the community and see and better access for everyone.”

“We’re excited to open this area for new services and highlight a successful public-private partnership that works for the entire community”, added Robisch, “After all, it’s about serving the community first and that is what Fremont County Fire and Wyoming.com do best”.

Cerento was hired by Wyoming.com for the engineering design, procurement and construction portions of the Wireless NextGen project.

Wyoming.com will have more information on its new Wireless NextGen service at its NextGen-Customer Appreciation Day at the Company’s headquarters on Thursday, September 18th from 11:00am – 2:00pm.
