WYOMING.COM CELEBRATES WIRELESS NEXTGEN SERVICE LAUNCH

Company Invites Public to Customer Appreciation Day on September 18th

Riverton, WY (August 25, 2014) – The Wyoming-based Internet, phone, and data network service provider announced today that it is continuing the initial turn-up phase of its Wireless NextGen network project for northern Fremont County. To celebrate the new services now coming on line Wyoming.com is welcoming the public to its “Next Gen” Customer Appreciation Day to be held on September 18th between at 11:00a.m. and 2:00p.m.

“We want to celebrate the tremendous progress our staff has made thus far on deploying our Wireless NextGen to the rural communities of Fremont County”, Chris Robisch, Director of Sales, Marketing and Public Policy said. The Next Gen Customer Appreciation Day will give the public an opportunity to learn more about Wyoming.com’s NextGen service, its many other services and to meet the staff that’s making it all happen.

A light barbecue lunch with brats and burgers will be available to visitors. “The much faster broadband speeds, greatly expanded coverage in rural areas, and the affordable phone service that comes with all of that is a huge improvement for our rural neighbors”, Robisch added.

The Company, having purchased a hog at the Fremont County Fair, will also be raffling four large pork packages during its Next Gen Customer Appreciation Day. Raffle tickets will be available on September 18th between 11:00am and 1:45pm at the Wyoming.com offices and winners will be announced at 2:00pm. “We always try to support the Fremont County Fair and we thought a hog would be somewhat symbolic”, Robisch said, “After all, thanks to Wireless NextGen, the Internet is no longer hog-tied for Fremont County’s rural customers!”

The Company will also be hosting this month’s Riverton Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours from 5:00 – 7:00. It’s another great opportunity to explain what Wyoming.com is doing for the Riverton business community, as well as helping Riverton businesses re-connect after a busy summer. Both events promise to create a very busy day at Wyoming.com on the 18th of September.
